

ABSTRACT

An object of the invention is to provide a liquid clay allowing paintings to be freely made on a painting media such as a drawing board or cardboard with a spatula, and whereby the picture that has been painted presents a texture similar to that of an oil painting. This is characterized in that it is produced as a result of adding fine vegetable powder and sodium alginate or an equivalent material to an aqueous solution of CMC (carboxymethylcellulose) or an equivalent material and kneading, so as to prepare a liquid clay body in a state suitable for spatula application, and in that pigment is added to this liquid clay body.
